

Our Next 100 Years

With their sights clearly set on a bright future, the people of Piedmont Community Church opened the doors to their new church on January 6, 1918.

Six years after formation, the congregation completed the challenging task of construction, inviting all people of faith to "join in work and worship."

Their optimism and dedication to ministry came during a difficult time for our country. World War I continued to rage as American families of all faiths fought to make sense of it all.

No doubt, the church was as essential to the people of that era as it is today.

One hundred years later, the sanctuary, courtyard, classrooms and social hall continue to offer a gathering place and a spiritual refuge for Piedmont's community of faith.

The history of our church makes one message perfectly clear - the strongest chapters have yet to be written.

Wallace & Mary Alexander

Our generation is challenged to follow in the footsteps of our founders, Wallace and Mary Alexander among them, to provide future congregations with the blessing of worship, fellowship and service to mankind.

The Alexanders endowed our church with gifts of land and money. Their contributions provided for the revered grounds and hallowed structures so vital to our overall mission; welcoming and nurturing disciples to serve.

The Piedmont Church Endowment Fund continues this spirit of generosity while providing security for our future.

Unlike the annual Stewardship campaign, designed to meet the current operating needs of the church, the Endowment Fund is more like a 401(k) account. We contribute to it to help to secure the long-term financial viability of the church.

Please consider making a substantial gift to the Endowment Fund by including Piedmont Community Church in your will or estate planning.

Also, for a minimum $500 donation, you can purchase a brick in honor of your family or loved one.

In either case, you will become members of the Wallace & Mary Alexander Founders Circle. If you are already members of the Founders Circle, consider making an additional gift to the Endowment Fund as a sustaining member. Your legacy will help secure Our Next 100 Years.

Please use the attached form to make your intentions known.
